

Peer review

We, at Romanian Journal of Military Medicine, understand the importance of peer review process in upholding quality of scholarly publications. Once a manuscript is received online from the author, it passes the following stages:

1. The manuscript received is first handled by journal management team. During this stage, manuscript is checked for plagiarism and grammatical errors. We use different high quality reliable software's to detect plagiarized content and grammatical errors in manuscript.
2. After successful passing the first step, manuscript assigns a unique code, and decision regarding primary acceptance is communicated to corresponding author. Coded manuscript then forwarded for blindfolded review process.
3. Primarily accepted manuscript is then forwarded for reviewers' evaluation (three reviewers). Reviewers are selected by journal management team on given parameters. All three reviewers are provided with template of reviewers report to facilitate structured review format. Reviewers need to submit their evaluation report within 10 working days.
4. Evaluation report received by any two reviewers (first come basis) then analyzed by Editor In chief for publishing it in upcoming issue.
5. Further if any abnormalities have been found in the manuscript, author will be asked for making the changes and resubmit the manuscript.
6. Corrected manuscript is then handled by journal editorial team for possible copyediting. Copyright form, ethical clearance letter are to be obtained from the author.
7. Authors are then communicated about the publication of corrected manuscript in upcoming issue of RJMM.
8. This process may take few days depending upon reviewers' response on manuscript evaluation. Process ensures that identity of reviewers is kept confidential and cannot be revealed to authors. On the basis of review report received, an acceptance letter is sent to the author.
